

Asset Management/WEEE

Have your redundant IT systems become a burden?....

In today's climate of more stringent regulations and the pressure to be socially responsible, organisations such as ours need to meet government disposal initiatives such as WEEE (waste of electronic & electrical equipment) but there is also a commercial responsibility to get the best possible return on investment from redundant systems.

..... Let Comcen take the weight off your shoulders!

Here at Comcen we have a proven solution to meet your compliance needs and maximise your potential revenue from redundant equipment.

Our total solution approach takes care of everything from initial collection (even from multiple sites) through to ethical disposal, this also ensures total data wiping prior to resale or recycling. You are also provided with certificates of data integrity and environmental disposal, to meet your requirements under WEEE and the data protection act.

How does it work?....

The first step is to decide what assets you wish to dispose of, we can assist you with this by conducting an asset audit first should it be required.

Once you have the equipment at central collection points, we will then pack and collect the assets, returning them to a central warehouse where they are sorted and graded according to resale value or allocated for spares or disposal.

We then resell or dispose of your assets in the most financially viable manner to maximise revenue and minimise disposal cost.....giving you the best Return on investment possible!

..... Related Services!

Comcen professional services also offer a wide range of asset management services designed to free up your time, so you can concentrate on key business challenges.

Although important and necessary, activities such as asset tagging, asset audit and pre lease return audit, are all time intensive activities, many of our customers appoint us to carry out this work so they can concentrate on core activities that are often more business critical....
